

The Mail Ego

By Terrence O'Flaherty

"Faye Dunaway was wonderful in 'Bonnie and Clyde.' Who discovered her?"

Now that she's a hit, everyone claims the credit. Ot Preminger discovered her in an off-Broadway play called "Hogan's Goat" and cast her in his "Hurry Sundown." Warren Beatty discovered her in "Hurry Sundown' and put her in "Bonnie and Clyde." The public discovered her in "Bonnie and Clyde" and put her in the $300,000-a-picture bracket. Now we've got to find out who cast her in "Hogan's Goat!"

"Who is Jill Smith, this new blonde who left her husband on the hospital steps in

'Peyton Place' last week? Is she the substitute for the departing Leigh Taylor-Young?"

The actress's name is Joyce Jillson, listed as 20 years old from Cranston, R.I., who now lives in a Hollywood apartment with two dozen stuffed animals. She has filmed 19 episodes so far. Leigh Taylor-Young was bounced from the series because of pregnancy. If her 'replacement' is an unwed mother, it could only happen in Peyton Place!

"The popular songs of the past always had a beginning, a middle and an ending. Why don't the songs of today have any conclusion? They end when the musicians stop playing or someone unplugs the microphone."

It's always easier to start something than it is to end it—and that includes songs, love affairs and installment buying. Maybe the no-ending song is typical of a Peter Pan generation which worships youth and is suspicious of adults. Ending means growing up. And growing up seems to be the one thing the rock-and-roll generation dreads the most.

"What happened to 'The Avengers'? We used to be big fans when it was on last year because it was sophisticated, but the first show of the new series this month was childish stuff about shrinking people."

Last year "The Avengers" was telecast late in the evening during adult viewing hours. This month it appeared at 7:30 p.m. which networks consider to be a young people's viewing period — although their programming doesn't always show it. It looks as if "The Avengers" are trying to attract the kiddies. You will recall they were the ones who rescued "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." and kept him on the air.

"The flight of 'The Fugl-itive' ended last year — just before we got weary of the chase. Now, when will Ben Gazzara stop 'Running for his Life' in the series of the same name and will he die of his incurable disease?"

Gazzara was panting a little this month; however the series has been renewed to finish the season. There is some doubt about continuing in the fall. Gazzara says he will be happy to stop running this spring but he does not want a finale in the manner of "The Fugitive." He thinks it should end in a question mark—but that's the sort of ending the public hates.

"Now that Carol Channing lost out to Barbara Streisand for the movie version of 'Hello Dolly,' and her television series didn't get on the air, I'm worried. What's she going to do next?"

Never worry about Carol. She's one of the new actresses who can take care of herself. She's up for an Oscar in "Thoroughly Modern Millie" and next month she and Jackie Gleason start "Ski-adoo," a movie about hippies to be filmed in San Francisco. And just when everyone thought the hippie movement was dead, shaved, and buried!

News and information about your public-owned transportation system, published in this newspaper as a community service from the Southern California Rapid Transit District.

Eating out can run the gauntlet from hot dogs to broiled lobster, and the service from treatment to treat. Recommending bistros is not my line, but getting to them by bus is. Los Angeles is loaded with fine restaurants and many of them stand out like a beer salesman at a WCTU Convention. Check today's newspaper for the eatery of your choice, but depend on the RTD to get you there.

I seem to become involved in all sorts of subjects that stray from the bus business, but really not too far. When the time comes to move or buy a home, it could be convenient and economical to locate on or near a bus route. This can be particularly true if you have children growing up. It's like having a telephone on the night stand, you feel just a little more comfortable for knowing it's there. RTD, with over 100 lines in 4 counties, can give you that comfortable feeling.

Sometime in the not too distant future, you will be riding in 70-mile per hour fully automated luxury styled vehicles. This concept is Rapid Transit, and it's inevitable. Until that time arrives, the bus can do a reasonable job of getting you to work or where ever you want to go. The RTD's 2200 miles of lines offer a good back up system for the family car. I would suggest you send for a system map just in case. Even Caddies and Lincolns have been known to break down.

Q. What would I take from my home in Lawndale to the new Forum? I live near Artesia and Firmona. Mr. M.C.

A. From where you live, it's a short walk to the #5 line on Hawthorne. Ride the 5 to La Brea & Manchester and transfer to the 54 line going east. If you haven't seen the Forum, you're in for a treat.

Q. How can I get to Harbor General Hospital from Redondo Beach? I will be going in the afternoons. Mrs. L.C.J.

A. Take Greyhound in Redondo Beach to Torrance Boulevard & Crenshaw and change to the Torrance 3 line going east to the hospital.

Q. What bus passes in front of the Stuffed Horse on Imperial Hwy., and where does it go? Can I get to Los Angeles on it R.P?

A. That would be the RTD 102 line going to Redondo Beach. If you catch the 102 and ride to Catalina Street in Redondo Beach you can change to the 51 line to Los Angeles.

Q. How would one get from Inglewood to Pasadena and how long would it take on the bus?

A. By taking the 5 line on Market Street in Inglewood and riding to 6th & Broadway in Los Angeles, walking one block west to Spring for the 70 or 71 line, you can make the trip in less than two hours.

Send your questions to Transportation Editor, Artie Dee, care of this newspaper. All questions will be answered in the column or by mail. A system map will be sent free to each person writing in. No stamps or stamped envelopes are necessary.
